MONTHS IN MOUNTAINSThe Hardships of Two Missionary Captives.*CHANGING CAMPS IN SNOW STORMS*Brigands Manage to Elude Pursuers at All Points But the Women Suffer Greatly.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 2.—The following account of the captivity of Miss Stone has been obtained from reliable sources, some of the information having been secured from accomplices of the brigands. After the capture of the missionaries, near Bansko, in September last, the brigands established themselves on the Mountain of Gueltepe, in the Elledere district, Bulgaria, where the whole population were in sympathy with the enterprise.

While awaiting the result of their efforts to secure the ransom, the brigands drew their supplies from the adjacent village of Ledjuma. Feeling perfectly secure, the members of the band used to show themselves openly in Kamenica and neighboring villages. The prisoners, however, were jealously secluded.

When C. M. Dickinson, United States Consul General at Constantinople, arrived early in October last and disclosed to the authorities the whereabouts of Miss Stone's captors, the result was nearly disastrous to the prisoners. The Bulgarian government ill advisedly pushed troops to the vicinity of Gueltepe, forcing the brigands to break off negotiations, and the band changed its quarters to Kilo. The cold weather made travel in the mountains a dreadful ordeal for Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka, numbered as they were with the latter's infant. Every change of camp occurred at midnight.

The brigands treated their captives as kindly as the circumstances permitted, but the food supply was necessarily precarious, though the ladies were given the best the inhospitable region afforded. The captives at no time knew of their whereabouts, the brigands always telling them they were not in Bulgaria, and they were in constant fear of attack by troops, whom the friendship of the natives was not always able to prevent from coming close upon the trail of the band. An equal cause of anxiety was the baby, which it was frequently feared would die from exposure.

Not until November 2 did the American emissaries come in touch with the band, which was then established in a cave near Dubnitz; but fear of the troops forced the brigands to another flight. This was made in a blinding snowstorm, which covered the tracks of the outlaws, but caused bitter suffering to the captives. After this the brigands succeeded in completely eluding the authorities, and toward the end of November, by a long route, they succeeded in returning to their old haunts in the Elledere district. They then caused to be circulated a report that the captives were dead, and from that time managed to keep Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka safely under cover until the actual release of the captives took place.

EVERY DAY FACTS.

Honolulu Produces Its Share—This Comes From Kawaiahao.

What makes anything a fact? Isn't it an occurrence of statement that can be proven true and correct in every particular? What constitutes conclusive evidence to the mind of a Honolulu citizen? Is it the statement of some one made in Texas or California? We think not, but when some of our own people make a statement and it is indorsed by many, there can be no question about that. Under these circumstances we call them facts, and they are every-day facts, because they are occurring every day. Don't take our word for what is said. If you are not satisfied, ask them; people don't make such assertions without good reasons.

The Rev. J. Nua of Kawaiahao informs us:

"I suffered from kidney trouble, which was, I believe, caused by my lifting heavy weights whilst young. Pains in the small of my back were one of the symptoms of my complaint. My trouble extends back to the time when I was 28 years of age, and as I am now 49, that is a considerable period. During all this time I was subject to pains in the back. They continued despite the fact that I consulted several physicians and took numerous remedies. No relief thus gained can be compared to the benefit obtained from using Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. I have got on wonderfully well since taking them. I am quite satisfied with the result, and shall always have some of the pills by me, even when going from Honolulu to other missionary fields in the South Pacific. There is no other remedy like Doan's Backache Kidney Pills for kidney complaints, including backache. It is important to get the same pills which helped Mr. Nua—DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS. Therefore, ask for Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes for $2.50), or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

SINGER ROBBED OF INSTRUMENTS

W. K. Macomber Loses Banjo, Guitar and Some Other Valuables.

(Special to the Advertiser.)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The sweet singers of hulas and melees who have carried the melodies of Hawaii from Buffalo to Frisco feel aggrieved at their treatment by a resident of this city. The Hawaiian Glee Club, composed of nine players and singers, is now in Los Angeles, and will shortly sail for Honolulu.

While here a thief stole articles worth $118 from W. K. Macomber, one of the club. The police have in custody a man who is suspected of the theft. The Chronicle says concerning the sad happening:

The Hawaiian Glee Club is out of tune. A jarring discord has marred the harmony of its final hours in San Francisco. It has been robbed of some of its sweetest melody, and some of its finest instruments. No fond "aloha" will sound this morning at 7 o'clock as the dusky ballad singers and strummers of stringed things depart on the early train for Los Angeles. The wrongs they have suffered in this great city will stick to their memories like the native "poli" to the fingers of the languorous Hawaiian maiden at a feast in Honolulu.

Theirs is a case of misplaced confidence and unlocked doors. They went to the Orpheum last night for their closing performance, and when they returned to their apartments some admirers had possessed themselves of valuable souvenirs and departed into the darkness of the stormy night. And such is the lesson these islanders have learned in America, where locks are put on doors to keep unwelcome visitors from intruding and not left off as is the custom in the unsuspicious paradise of the Pacific.

If any citizen should find in his possession this morning a fine Dewick banjo, value $40, and a Martin mandolin, value $25, and an Alvista camera, value $35, and a black military overcoat, value $18, then that citizen should guess that he must have been walking in his sleep and entered the Hawaiian's room by mistake and taken those things away. And the police are out looking for the man who was in a trance.

All the mementoes of the visit of the Hawaiian Glee Club were taken from one player, W. K. Macomber, perhaps because he was the most hospitable individual in the entire troupe, and repeatedly entertained friends in his little eight by ten inside room at 121 Powell street. This Hawaiian player and two other members of the club were in the crowded room along with four local Hawaiian acquaintances up to 8:15 o'clock last night. Then one of the trio of singers departed for the theater.

At 8:30 the host himself went over to the Orpheum, and fifteen minutes later the last of the trio of professional players left the room for the show-house. When he departed the four visitors were seated on the bed and the trunk, having a sociable time. But when Macomber returned to his room at 10:30 o'clock the quartet of visiting Hawaiians was gone, and so were the most of his valued effects.

"This beats my New York record," sighed the sad Hawaiian singer. "In New York some one touched me for $110 in cash, and the things I have been robbed of tonight were worth $118."

The Hawaiian Glee Club was an attraction at the Buffalo Exposition. For the seven months since the fall these sweet singers have been touring the country and making a good thing out of the circuit. This was to be their last show town, except Los Angeles. After that the whole troupe expects to return to Hawaii, where unlocked rooms are safe and no honest man would steal his host's banjo.
